

Introducing the Rabaul Hotel

Located beneath the caldera walls of Rabaul that surround Simpson Harbour, the Rabaul Hotel has been hosting visitors to the area since 1952. Formerly known as the Ascot, it was renamed the Hamamas (“happy” in Pidgin English) when purchased by Sir Julius Chan in the 1970’s. After being severely damaged by fire in 1984, the hotel was rebuilt & purchased by the McGrade family. In 1994 the Hotel was severely damaged by the devastating twin volcanic eruptions of Mt. Tavurvur & Vulcan but ‘rose from the ashes’ & re-furnished back to its original state. In 2003 the Hotel returned to its birthright and renamed the “Rabaul Hotel” for posterity. It is now owned & managed by “Miss Susie” youngest of the McGrade daughters & 3rd Generation Rabaul Resident.

The Rabaul Hotel is situated 50 minutes from Tokua Airport. Featuring 38 hotel rooms which cater for all budgets, the hotel’s atmosphere reflects a blend of the culture of Rabaul’s people (the Tolais) and it’s more recent Australian & Chinese influences.

The Rabaul Hotel is perfectly situated for visitors wanting to discover Rabaul’s many unique experiences. It lies within 15 minutes of bellowing Tavurvur Volcano and walking distance of the main wharf on beautiful Simpson Harbour. Close to Rabaul’s historic sites, it also boasts a Japanese WWII tunnel (part of Yamamoto’s Tunnel Network) situated right under the restaurant & a WW11 British Naval Canon. Catering for business travellers or visitors with a special interest in war history, volcanoes, indigenous culture, wreck diving, fishing, trekking, bird watching or golf; the Rabaul Hotel is the perfect base to discover a town shaped by an amazing and dramatic natural and social history.
